

Arizona Creative Surfaces uses CenturyStone™ Natural Iron Oxides and strives to achieve the “appearance” of real stone and tile. All overlays are hand stained, with sponges or brushes, with the exception of Lace applications where deck stain is rolled or sprayed.

Iron Oxides are water based colorants. They are not solid colors like paint. Oxides are mixed with water and applied with brushes, brooms and sponges to obtain the most natural look. Being a transparent stain, the colors will vary from sample to sample and job to job.

In choosing the colors for your project, it is important that you choose the tone of the color and not the exact shade. Colors will always vary from surface to surface.

Arizona Creative Surfaces does not guarantee to match any existing surface or sample. Our goal is to “complement or blend” the chosen color or sample.

Once a color has been selected the crew will make a sample for the homeowner’s approval. Upon approval, the crew will proceed to apply these colors to the overlay.

Carefully select your colors. Changing colors after the initial application can result in added charges and in some cases may not be possible without resurfacing the entire project.